CSI-SII Award Applications - Now being accepted

The Canadian Society for Immunology is again accepting applications for the CSI-SII Award. This award is to attract talented students to immunology research. The Canadian Society for Immunology (CSI) will provide matching funds to enable undergraduate or recently graduated students to carry out summer research projects in immunology labs within Canada. This year's competition will support up to 7 awards. For further information and an application (due date March 16, 2012) click here.
